NEW YORK:
DICK & FITZGERALD, PUBLISHERS.
Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1865, by

DICK & FITZGERALD,

in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.
PREFACE.

The principal difficulty in the advancement of the banjo has been a lack of well qualified teachers; the majority of those claiming to be "Professors of the banjo" not possessing the slightest knowledge of even the simple rudiments of music, and as a natural result, instead of elevating the instrument, their efforts have a tendency to carry it back to its original imperfect state.

That the banjo should, and does hold a prominent position as a musical instrument, none can deny. And the fact of the eminent pianist and composer M. Thalberg having long devoted a share of his study to the development of its capabilities is conclusive proof as to its real merits.

In presenting this work to the public I have sought to adapt it to those, who, without having a previous knowledge of the notes, are desirous of learning this popular instrument correctly without being obliged first to become thoroughly familiar with the theory of music. I have, therefore, aimed particularly at brevity, clearness, and simplicity of expression in explaining the difficulties as they occur, and have abbreviated the elementary portion of the work so far as practical, explaining only what I consider to be actually necessary to give the learner a sufficient knowledge of music to enable him to easily master the contents of this book without the aid of a teacher. The necessary explanations accompany each tune, and are placed under the notes, upon each page, plainly showing the string required: the finger to be used for stopping it: the manner of striking: and the number of times it must be sounded. All arranged so as to be readily comprehended at a glance.

I trust my effort to assist the learner may add to the number of performers on this popular American instrument.

The Author.

THE ELEMENTS OF MUSIC.

Musical ideas, or sounds, are expressed by characters called notes, and are named after the first seven letters of the Alphabet, viz.:

A, B, C, D, E, F, G.

Notes are written on five parallel lines and in their intermediate spaces; which, collectively taken, are called the staff.

<table>

<th>Lines.</th>
<th>Spaces.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The lines and spaces are counted from the bottom upwards.

The Treble Clef is the only one used for banjo music, and is represented on the staff thus:

Names of the Lines and Spaces.

Treble Clef:

E, G, B, D, F, F, A, C, E.

The letters of the spaces, taken collectively, spell the word FACE.

You can easily ascertain the name of any desired line by reckoning from the name of the nearest space to it; as, for example: C is in the third space. Now the first line above the third space, which is the fourth line, and is one whole step above the third space, must be D, as you reckon alphabetically in going upwards; and the third line, which is just below the third space, must be B, one whole step below, or before C.

Added or Leger Lines.

As the notes frequently extend either above or below the staff, added, or leger lines are used, and are reckoned in the same manner as those upon the staff.

Names of the Notes on the Staff. Leger Lines and Spaces.

The stems of the notes may be turned up or down without changing their value.

Notes.

There are six different kinds of notes, viz.: Whole note; Half note; Quarter note; Eighth note; Sixteenth note, and Thirty-second note.

Proportionate Value of the Notes.

One Whole Note

is equal to 2 Halves:

or 4 Quarters;

or 8 Eighths;
The notes have corresponding rests, or marks of silence, during which the melody stops, but the beat continues. They are of equal duration of time as the notes which they represent.

Table of Rests.

<td><img src="image" alt="Sixteenth Note" /></td>
<td><img src="image" alt="Thirty-second Note" /></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Dot.

A dot placed immediately after a note makes it one half as long again, thus:

- A dotted whole note, \( \cdot \), is equal to three half notes.
- A dotted half note, \( \cdot \), is equal to three quarter notes.
- A dotted quarter note, \( \cdot \), is equal to three eighth notes.
- A dotted eighth note, \( \cdot \), is equal to three sixteenth notes.
- A dotted sixteenth note, \( \cdot \), is equal to three thirty-second notes.

_This rule is also observed with Rests._
The Triplet.

Three notes written thus \[\text{\textsuperscript{3}}\text{\textsuperscript{2}}\text{\textsuperscript{1}}\] form a Triplet, which signifies that the three notes must be played in the time of two of the same variety of notes.

Sharp, Flat, and Natural.

A Sharp (♯) placed before a note, raises it a half tone; i.e., it must be played a half tone higher.

A Flat (♭) lowers a note half a tone.

A Natural (♮) counteracts the effect of either a sharp or a flat, and restores the note to its original position.

The Signature.

The sharps or flats placed at the beginning of a staff after the clef form the Signature. They affect all the notes bearing the same names throughout the piece.

Tones and Semitones.

A Semitone is the smallest interval or degree used in music. A Tone is two semitones combined.

\[\text{Semitone, Semitone,} \quad \text{Tone.}\]

Time, Measures, &c.

Every piece of music is divided into equal portions by small lines drawn perpendicularly across the staff; each one of these portions is called a Measure.

Varieties of Time.

There are three varieties of Time, viz.: Common, Triple, and Compound. They are expressed by figures placed at the beginning of a tune, after the signature.
COMMON TIME.

Two quarters, or their equivalent in each measure.

\[ \frac{2}{4} \quad \frac{4}{4} \]

Four quarters, or their equivalent in each measure.

\[ \frac{4}{4} \quad \frac{4}{4} \]

TRIPLE TIME.

Three quarters, or their equivalent in each measure.

\[ \frac{3}{4} \quad \frac{3}{8} \]

Three eighths, or their equivalent in each measure.

\[ \frac{8}{8} \quad \frac{8}{8} \]

COMPOUND TIME.

Six eighths, or their equivalent in each measure.

\[ \frac{6}{8} \quad \frac{9}{8} \]

Nine eighths, or their equivalent in each measure.

\[ \frac{9}{8} \quad \frac{9}{8} \]

TO COUNT AND BEAT TIME.

The upper figure denotes the number of Beats or Counts required in each measure; the lower figure the Quantity of each beat or count.

MANNER OF STRINGING THE BANJO.

1st String....................a Violin E String.

2nd " " " A "

3rd " " " D "

4th " .................." Banjo 4th "

5th " .................." Violin E string (light).

For the 2nd, 3rd, and 5th strings select the lightest of the three varieties.

TUNING.

An A tuning fork, or pitch pipe, is of great assistance to beginners in learning to tune the banjo. They can be procured of any music dealer.
4th String.
Commence with this string, which tune to A (tuning fork or pitch pipe).

3rd String.
Measure the distance from the nut to the bridge, and at one third the distance (measuring from the nut) stop the 4th string with the second finger of the left hand, making E. Tune the 3rd string in unison with it.

2nd String.
At one fifth of the distance, measuring as before, stop the 3rd string with the second finger, making G#. Tune the 2nd string in unison with it.

1st String.
At one third the distance, measuring as before, stop the 3rd string with the second finger, making B. Tune the 1st string in unison with it.

5th String.
Tune the 5th string in unison with the 3rd string sounded open.

Unison.
When two strings are in unison, by sounding one, it will cause the other to vibrate.

Test of Tuning.
If the instrument is in tune, the first three strings sounded open, and in the following order, thus: 3rd, 2nd, 1st, 1st, will commence the air of "Oh Susanna." Then by placing the left hand at the natural position (see diagram) the 4th and 2nd strings will sound in unison.

The Banjo in Tune will sound the following Notes.
HOLDING THE BANJO.

Sit erect. The banjo resting on the front of the right thigh; the neck elevated and resting in the left hand between the thumb and forefinger. Rest the right fore-arm on the rim of the instrument near the tail piece, bringing the wrist over the bridge.

POSITION OF THE RIGHT HAND.

Partly close the hand, allowing the first finger to project a little in advance of the others. Hold the fingers firm in this position. Slightly curve the thumb. Strike the strings with the first finger (nail) and pull with the thumb.

SIGNS FOR FINGERING.

Left Hand.

Left-hand fingering is written above the notes, thus: 1, 2, 3, 4; the figures naming the fingers required for stopping the strings to make the required note. Notes figured thus: 1, 2, 3, 4, must be sounded by pulling the string with the finger of the left hand, which is numbered in the half circle.

Right Hand.

Right-hand fingering is written below the notes, thus: X, indicating the thumb, and 1, the first finger. A waved line, ---, placed under a Triplet or any collection of notes, denotes that you must play them by sliding the first finger across the required strings. Notes written thus:

are to be sounded on the fifth (thumb) string by pulling with the thumb.

ARKANSAS TRAVELER.

This piece is intended to represent an Eastern man's experience among the inhabitants of Arkansas, showing their hospitality and the mode of obtaining it.

Several years since, he was traveling the State to Little Rock, the capital. In those days, railroads had not been heard of, and the stage-lines were very limited; so, under the circumstances, he was obliged to travel the whole distance on foot. One evening, about dusk, he came across a small log-house, standing fifteen or twenty yards from the road, and enclosed by a low rail fence of the most primitive description. In the doorway sat a man, playing a violin: the tune was the then most popular air in that region—namely, "The Arkansas Traveler." He kept repeating the first part of the tune over and over again, as he could not play the second part. At the time the traveler reached the house it was raining very hard, and he was anxious to obtain shelter from the storm. The house looked like anything but a shelter, as it was covered with clapboards and the rain was leaking into every part of it. The old man's daughter Sarah appeared to be getting supper, while a small boy was setting the table, and the old lady sat in the doorway near her husband, admiring the music.

The stranger, on coming up, said, "How do you do?"
The man merely glanced at him, and, continuing to play, replied, "I do as I please."

Stranger. How long have you been living here?
Old Man. D'ye see that mountain thar? Well, that was thar when I come here.
S. Can I stay here to-night?
O. M. No! ye can't stay here.
S. How long will it take me to get to the next tavern?
O. M. Well, you'll not get thar at all, if you stand thar foolin' with me all night! (Plays.)

EXPLANATION.

Translated, Abridged and Arranged from the French Works of Desbarolles, D'Arpentigny and De Para d'Hermes. This book is a concise summary of the elaborate works of the above-named authorities on Palmistry.
The various lines and mounts on the palm of the hand, and the typical formation of the hand and fingers are all clearly explained and illustrated by diagrams. The meaning to be deduced from the greater or less development of these mounts and lines (each of which has its own signification), also from the length, thickness and shape of the thumb and fingers, and from the mutual bearing they exercise on each other, is all distinctly explained.
Complete facility for instant reference is insured by means of marginal notes by which any point of detail may be found and consulted at a glance.
By means of this book the hitherto occult mystery of Palmistry is made simple and easy, and the whole Art may be acquired without difficulty or delay. It is emphatically Palmistry in a nutshell, and by its use, character and disposition can be discerned and probable future destiny foretold with surprising accuracy.
